MAINSTAGE PRODUCTION. When August Wilson died in October 2005, he was widely regarded as the greatest living American playwright. UGA pays homage to Wilson's memory with a dynamic new production of the second play in his 10-play cycle that depicts African American experiences from each decade of the twentieth century. A stranger comes to a Pittsburgh boarding house in 1911, so mired in his own unearned suffering that he cannot find his voice. Ultimately, he finds his song: the song of self-sufficiency.

April 20 Colloquium Rescheduled

George Contini's colloquium presentation about Putting It in the Scrapbook, scheduled for this Friday, April 20, has been postponed until the beginning of next semester, August 24 at 12:20 pm. There will be no departmental colloquium on April 20 (and since that was the last colloquium of the year, that means the colloquia season Spring 2006 is over). George, of course, will still be presenting the show itself, directed by Kristin Kundert-Gibbs, on Saturday and Sunday, April 28-29.
